Announcement Spring Selection 2013 - International MFPL PhD Program

Dear Colleagues,

The Max F. Perutz Laboratories, located at the Vienna Biocenter Campus - a major European science hub – are happy to announce an open call from the International MFPL PhD Program.

We are inviting applications from talented candidates from all over the world. Our Program covers the full range of the molecular biosciences, exploring life at the cellular, molecular and atomic level. The Max F. Perutz labs have an open, collaborative environment with PhD students and Postdocs already representing more than 40 nations. The working language of the institute is English.

We kindly ask you to communicate this announcement to interested students and researchers and to put up the enclosed poster at your institute.

Deadline for applications is March 10, 2013. Further information on the program and the benefits offered as well as online applications are available at www.mfpl.ac.at/phd-program.

Sincerely yours,

Bojan Žagrovič
PhD Program Coordinator
